Managements' Q1 2014 Discussion

NOTE: The Company uses all of its free cash flow from operations to reinvest back into growth. Shareholders should expect that all available liquid resources will be redeployed into growing its business and NOT retained as profit.

Diversification is the most important element in growing the Company so that risk is spread across multiple product categories and business segments. Women's fashion is an ever changing industry and trends can change very quickly. As the Company diversifies its product segments and expands its online footprint, the overall business is expected to get stronger as season and fashion trends are mitigated with a diversified business and product mix.

The Company has continued to develop its Fashion Habitat network of women's fashion websites with multiple sites at various stage of development. The following is a description of Bravada's 3 level system of categorizing each website's stage of development:

Level 1: Websites on level 1 are on full attention detail with resources and efforts deployed for these websites to derive revenue. These websites are fully operational, product populated and full marketing and inventory efforts are in place.

Level 2: Websites on level 2 are sites that are in the mid stage of development. These websites are slowly being populated with product and increasing their keyword rankings (SEO) on Google, Bing and Yahoo for organic traffic generation.

Level 3: Websites on level 3 are sites that are in early stages of development with regards to source code, SEO with little to no product population as of yet. These are infant websites however, the url is active and live.

One of the main determining factors in SEO is the age or the length of time an url has been live which means that Bravada launches its websites as soon as possible to begin the process of being crawled by the major search engines.

The following is a list of Bravada's websites and their level:

OnlyLeggings.com	Level 1
WorldofLeggings.com	Level 1
DressesHabitat.com	Level 1
VivaVuva.com	Level 1
TopsHabitat.com	Level 2
BasicsHabitat.com	Level 2
FashionJewelryHabitat.com	Level 2
SkirtsHabitat.com	Level 3
PlusSizeHabitat.com	Level 3
HandbagHabitat.com	Level 3
SwimwearHabitat.com	Level 3
FashionHabitat.com	Level 3

Each website requires a minimum of $50,000 of inventory to populate product to go from level 2 to level 1. Given the Company's limited resources, each website is elevated based on availability of liquid resources and level 2 performance with regards to organic traffic growth.

NOTE: Shareholders should not expect any significant revenue from ANY of the "Habitat" websites till at least late summer 2014.

OnlyLeggings.com

Given the very challenging environment in the women's fashion and beauty industries, the Company expects that 2014 and 2015 will continue to be very challenging as sales continue to soften across the industry. This is a trend that the Company Identified in April of 2013 which is the catalyst for its current expansion and business focus. Late in Q4, 2013, the Company implement a Premium Membership program on OnlyLeggings.com as well as an enhanced customer email harvesting initiative (in addition to others). These programs have been very successful to date with over 40,000 customer emails and over 1000 Premium Members.

Google Adwords

The effectiveness of Google Adwords has continued to diminish as conversion rates and click through rates have steadily dropped over the past 12 months, however, the costs per click has also dropped nearly 50% as competition for keywords continues to wane on Google meaning, fewer and fewer advertisers are online competing for Adword keywords. This does allow much more effective budget with twice the clicks per dollar spent, however, conversions on those clicks has been much lower consistent with a slowing consumer. The Company maintains an ad budget that results in a conversion rate that provides measurable benefit. The Company experiments with increased Google Adwords budgets on select days but there is no measurable increase in sales whatsoever, in fact as budgets are increased, sales per click drops significantly resulting in higher costs with no more added sales. This is most likely due the fact that as online sales traffic has declined and Google placing ads in less and less relevant websites as budgets increase to facilitate a budget. This has been the explanation provided to the Company by Google.

Outlook

The Company believes that the US economy has the potential to enter a shallow recession in the first half of 2014 and believes consensus Q2, GDP is far too optimistic by analysts as they were with Q1. A flattening yield curve has historically always signalled slowing economic activity and the yield curve in the US has continued and continues to flatten significantly. The Company believes the yield curve will continue to flatten signalling an economy that will continue to slow. The Company also believes that there will be a significant economic correction at some point in time. Factors include an aged economic expansion (6+ years), re-emerging sovereign debt issues, QE money printing and price discovery issues across most major asset classes globally in terms of real value which has created a misallocation of capital and a distortion in real asset values. To this end, the Company is developing itself to insulate itself from economic shock, whether they occur or not.

This has been consistent with the Company's outlook for the past 2 years, a slowing eroding economy driven by waning consumer demand and corporate capital expenditures. The Company believes that there will be a slightly stronger second half of 2014 for overall retail sales but tempered by a cautious consumer. The Company does not see any catalyst in the economy that will generate accelerated consumer demand heading into 2015.

Given this outlook, the Company has worked for the past year on expanding its overall online footprint by launching new ecommerce websites designed to add to its revenue per square foot, the main metric it uses to measure its financial health to negate a slowing economic environment. The Company has made significant internal cost cuts in anticipation of a weakening economy placing its cost structure in a highly competitive state.

The Company expects measurable revenue to develop in DressesHabitat.com in the summer of 2014, however, April sales have been much stronger than anticipated thus far on that website. Over time, additional websites will be added to the level 1 tier as resources allow for expansion. The Fashion Habitat network of websites are being developed with a weak consumer in mind so the prices for its products are being offered at very competitive price points.

OnlyLeggings.com and WorldofLeggings.com have maintained strong organic revenue with a growing repeat customer base. Late in 2013, the Company implemented programs to convert new customers into either premium members or have them join our mailing list of subscribers both of which have been successful. Service and selection are the two main ingredients in continuing to grow these two properties. Offering unsurpassed selection with the very best in service is a recipe that the Company strives to maintain at the highest levels.

Competition

The Company expects that many small competitors will cease to exist with many of the larger retail competitors continuing to close non-performing stores. This is expected to create a retail environment that is saturated with significant discounts by major national retailers, something that has been occurring en masse since Black Friday in 2013. The Company suggests that this is a part of the retail cycle with rampant store closings signifying a crucial stage in a retail correction. Although the Company cannot be certain of future events, it believes that the overall retail environment will continue very challenging.
